FOOT SALVE,

The Sure Cure for Corns and Infallible Remedy for Bunions, Sore and Inflamed Joints and Chilblains.

A great many people may think it strange that I am spending so much money in bringing before the public this article of FOOT SALVE especially as it is sold at so low a price that it hardly warrants so much advertising. The reason I do this is because I knew from experience how much a person suffers from a corn or other disease of the feet, and I think it my duty to make known to the suffering community as much as it is in my power to do the true value of this FOOT SALVE, that they may experience the relief that I did from its use some two years ago I had been suffering at that time for several months from a hard corn, which was so painful at times that it was almost unbearable, when Dr. Norman, a Chiropodist, came to my place of business and offered me the Salve to sell but I took no stock in it, as I had never heard before of a salve that had been used with perfect success for diseases of the feet, only He induced me to have it applied to my corn as a guarantee of its worth the first morning after its use was surprised to find that all the soreness had disappeared, and in a week's time the corn came off itself Finding with what success it worked in my case, I bought a quantity of the Salve and offered it to my customers, who used it for all the diseases for which it is recommended with like results I finally bought the right and formula from Dr Norman, and now offer it to the public generally at a price within the reach of all, trusting that by using it as directed, that they will experience the great benefit that I did from its use

Price, 25 Cents a Box.

DR. NORMAN'S FOOT SALVE is sold by all Druggists, or sent to any address on receipt of price Prepared by

POROUS PLASTERS.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER

Is the Best Kind.

This remarkable article contains all the valuable qualities of the slow acting common porous plaster and in addition an entirely new combination of active vegetable ingredients from which it derives its wonderful pain relieving, strengthening and curative properties It relieves pain at most immediately and cures where other plasters will not even relieve The manufacturers of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster were awarded the highest and only medal of merit given for plasters at the Centennial 1876 Your family physician will confirm our statement regarding its great merit

For Lame and Weak Back, Kidney Disease, Rheumatism, Stubborn and Neglected Colds, Lung and Chest Difficulties, The Lameness and Weakness peculiar to Women, Nervous Affections of the Heart, Chills and Fever, Sciatica and Lumbago, Diseases of Children such as Whooping Cough, Colds and Croup, (when applied in its early stages), and all Local Aches and Pains of Young or Old

IT IS SIMPLY THE BEST REMEDY EVER DEVISED OR KNOWN.

BENSON'S

CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER

There is no other remedy so well adapted for the above class of ailments. No other remedy contains the same combination of medicinal ingredients Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster is positively far superior to common porous plasters and to all other external remedies including liniments, and the so called electrical appliances Its powerful influence is felt almost at the first moment of application It gives relief, comfort, strength, and life to the afflicted It is neat and convenient, also pleasant to wear, as it creates merely a sensation of gentle and stimulating warmth

—CAUTION—

There are FRAUDULENT and WORTHLESS imitations of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster in the market One in particular, having a similar sounding name, contains lead poisons Each genuine Benson's Capcine Plaster has the word Capcine spelled C A P C I N E Take no other

HYDRAULIC MINING

THE MONSTER MINE OF CHEROKEE FLAT —A DARING FEAT OF ENGINEERING

There is not a bolder piece of engineering in California than the water works of Spring Valley mining and Irrigation Company at Cherokee Flat When we state that the supply of water used by the great hydraulic mine is 30 000 000 gallons daily, or three times the supply of the city of San Francisco, while in winter it is increased to 70,000 000 daily, some idea of the quantity may be gained, but when it is realized that this water is brought from reservoirs at the line of perpetual snow sixty three miles away, through numerous canals that ramify through the Sierra and is at last placed upon the summit of Table Mountain, an isolated plateau that stands over 1 000 feet above the gorges that cut it off from the main range, the magnitude of the problem solved by the execution of this daring and costly work is presented in a new light It was easy enough to collect the vast quantity of water and convey it in ditches along the hill slopes to a point opposite Table Mountain on an equal elevation, but when they talked about carrying it in a pipe across the deep gorge of the west fork of Feather river intervening many of the most eminent engineers of San Francisco shook their heads and said it was impossible It was necessary to lay a pipe thirty inches in diameter in order to convey the volume of water required The pipe needed to be 14,000 feet long, with a vertical pressure of 865 feet No pipe of that size had ever been made in the world to withstand that pressure Everybody sneered at the attempt and predicted that it would be a failure One engineer, Herman Schussler, Chief Engineer of the San Francisco Water Works, was found who said the scheme was feasible and upon his advice and by his plans the pipe was laid in 1870 proving a complete success But one pipe in the United States (that of the water works of Virginia City, Nevada), has a greater pressure, and no water pipe in the world as far as known has so great an aggregate pressure as this is required to withstand The strain upon the pipe at the bottom of the siphon is equal to 404 pounds to the square inch In other words, every inch in the pipe must withstand a tearing strain of 38 076 pounds! The thickness of the pipe (which is of the best wrought iron) at this point is three eighths of an inch double the thickness decreasing gradually each way to about one-sixteenth of an inch at either end The pipe crosses the river on a high truss bridge with a span of 219 feet From the bridge for a distance of about 600 feet on the south side, the pipe is so nearly perpendicular that ladders had to be built on the face of the hill for the ... of the workmen ... it The head of receiving end of the pipe is 180 feet higher than the discharge yet the friction is so enormous that the water has no great force at the lower end, and although the orifice is full, the water is not thrown any distance A box receives it and conducts it to an open ditch on the slope of the mountain, whence it is conducted to the reservoirs above the mine

It is only about a mile from the mine to the discharge end of the pipe, and the visitor to that section should never fail to go out and see it The view from the end of the mountain is grand and glorious Range after range of forest clad mountains are in view while the deep gorge at your feet gives you a sense of elevation that you do not elsewhere realize The Sacramento Valley too, is spread out before you in delightful perspective to the west—the oak glades about Chico seeming like dense, black forests

The total length of the ditches forming the magnificent water-works which we have been describing is 122 miles One of them taps Big Butte creek, another the west fork of the Feather, and others lead minor streams into the main channels, all concentrating into the reservoir at the upper end of the grand siphon which marks one of the greatest achievements in hydrostatic science

Kanakas (natives of the Sandwich Islands) are almost exclusively employed in keeping the ditches in repair Although not adapted to the steady laborious work of mining, they are excellent for this purpose, and they cannot be excelled in any emergency where swimming is required A singular accident happened at one of the upper reservoirs a few months ago Snow had fallen heavily, filling the reservoir completely The mass had congealed, when a warm rain followed, raising snow and ice to the surface The upper works about the headgates being frozen in, were thus lifted bodily, parting from the outlet gate at the bottom, forty feet below. The dam was in danger of bursting unless the flood gate could be raised The Kanakas dived under the snow and after several ineffectual efforts succeeded in connecting the rod with the gate, which was thus raised and the dam was relieved

The water-works, the hydraulic pipes, and the general cost of opening the mine at Cherokee have required an expenditure of over one million dollars The mine, however, pays handsomely, and yields from $400,000 to $600,000 annually. The excavation that has been made in the hillside is over a mile long, half a mile wide, and 300 feet deep The gravel is very fine, and lies between thick strata of white pipe clay, which is exceedingly tough, and resists the powerful action or the jets of water thrown against it, like soft rock. It is found advantageous to blast it. For this purpose tunnels are run in one or two hundred feet, with a cross drift at the end. A quantity of powder is placed in the drift, the hole is filled with earth again and tamped closely, and the powder is exploded with electricity A few days before we visited the mine 12,000 pounds of powder were exploded in one blast It acted with terrific force, lifting the whole face of the bank for several hundred feet, and scattering it to fragments While we were walking through one portion of the mine we were startled by a succession of explosions that reverberated like a park of artillery in a whispering gallery

The system of hydraulic pipes, flumes ground sluices, tunnels and undercurrents, is too intricate and extensive to be explained in words The pressure ordinarily used in hydraulicing is from 250 to 300 feet. with this force the water pours from the nozzles with the speed of a cannon ball. The nozzles are set about 300 feet from the face of the bank Even at that distance the tearing force of the water is enormous. The streams that flow away from the base of the bank freighted with gravel and mud, are like mad torrents plunging down the flumes. So great is the friction in the bottom of the flumes and from the gravel boulders passing through them that they must be lined by the hardest kind of igneous rock, and even the most durable material wears out in a few months. Six hydraulic streams are kept constantly playing on the bank, night and day. They are divided into three parts, placed in different parts of the mine. The nozzles are from five to seven inches in diameter, each pair taking the water from an eighteen-inch pipe It is fascinating to watch these immense streams crumbling the earth and tearing down the bank The nozzles are fixed on flexible joints and are so nicely counterpoised that a child could turn them in any direction The mine appears to be in a kind of basin, and tunnels one or two hundred feet long have been cut through its outer rim to conduct the tailings into the glutch whence they are conveyed into Big Dry Creek, a tributary of the Sacramento river. The bedrock of the mine is an exceedingly hard, green, serpentine rock, without any regular stratification or cleavage The tailings have caused such devastation in the valley of Dry Creek that the Company have been obliged at great expense to purchase all the farms adjacent to the stream through to the Sacramento They thus have become owners of 16 000 acres of fine farming lands, and as a matter of necessity have combined agriculture with mining They are maintaining a system of levees on either side of the stream, and manage to protect their lands from overflow In places where only the finer detritus from the dissolved pipe-clay has spread upon the land it has proved a vigorous fertilizer Pipe clay land produces forty to fifty bushels of wheat per acre

The capital stock of the Company is $5,000 000 It was incorporated in 1870, and a consolidation with one or two other companies holding claims in the vicinity was made in 1873 The mining company maintain a telegraph line along their ditches to facilitate their work The visit to Cherokee Flat was an event of deepest interest and pleasure throughout It gave us a better insight into the mysteries of hydraulic mining than we had ever before obtained Hydraulic mining is there conducted on a grander scale than in any portion of the State with one or two exceptions —Stockton Independent

CHINESE FEMALE EDUCATION

Chinese books for girls consist chiefly of exhortations to discharge all their duties as daughters wives mothers, sisters, and especially daughters in law If you go into a Pekin bookshop to examine what books are devoted to female training you will find a little volume called 'Nu er ching' which describes the daily routine of a girl's life before and after marriage A larger work is the Girl's Four Books," in two volumes This contains the best results of Chinese thinking on how the female mind ought to be trained The duties of daughter wife and mother are here explicitly laid down and illustrated by examples The boys have their Four Books, which they read before the study of the Five Classics These were fixed upon in the Sung dynasty 700 years ago A century of Mongol rule followed when the family of Genghis Khan held the throne. Then came the Ming dynasty which ruled for nearly three centuries It was at that time that the little collection of works called the Girl's Four Books" was made Emperors wrote prefaces to two of them, in order to give them greater authority Since that time these books have been much used as a sort of educational course In what does this work consist? In moral instruction

A girl may read it herself, or its lessons may be taught her by an instructor The publication of these was not intended to furnish a curriculum for use in girls' schools but in families Girls' schools were not thought of then, and it is only now, after the commencement of Christian missions that the question whether China should have girls' schools or not has come up —Inquirer

A novel battle took place the other day in Gilmore's Garden between "Bolivar" a little bantam rooster, which is allowed to roam at will about the enclosure of Barnum's circus, and the adjutant, a great long legged bird, with a bald head and a huge bill, that generally stands with closed eyes on one leg behind a wire fence. He is a most voracious bird, and, escaping from his enclosure the other day he set out on a foraging expedition Running across 'Bolivar' in the course of his wandering, he attempted to swallow that diminutive fowl in one gulp, but the bantam escaped by a nimble jump Then ensued the fight, the adjutant was bound to eat the bantam and Bolivar was bound to punish the adjutant The latter made repeated rushes at his little antagonist, and horrible lunges at him with his great bill, but the bantam easily escaped by darting between the long legs of the adjutant and attacking him in the rear Finally, the bantam just escaping an unusually vicious attack, flew into the air lighted on the shoulders of his huge antagonist, and with all the strength of his little body, began to peck the adjutant's bald head The adjutant could not dislodge him, and, furious with pain, rushed wildly about the museum uttering the most discordant shrieks, until the attendants had mercy on the literally hen pecked victim and came to his rescue

ECONOMY —Is one of the least understood words in our language It is not economy to starve the mind to stuff the stomach It is not economy to "scrimp and pinch and slave to keep up a style of dress or living to deceive other people's eyes It is not economy to put half the cost of women's or children's garments in to "style" and trimming, at the sacrifice of good, honest material It is not economy to buy poor things because they are "cheap" It is not economy to go with out flannels to wear laces, nor to give up comfort and possibly health for the sake of fashion. It is not economy to save money on necessities to be spent on "tom foolery," always remembering that necessities to a soul that lives over six feet above the earth in its aspirations, mean a good many things besides what we shall eat, drink and wear.

Emerson is seventy-five years old, Longfellow is seventy-one, and Tennyson is sixty-nine They are all of them still vigorous and active, and from each the world has heard something new within a short time. Taking Bryant's age as a standard, these have still many years of life and usefulness before them. And it is noteworthy that Bryant, who died at eighty four, was in his childhood what they call a prodigy Testimony had to be produced that he really wrote his own poems, and there were about him those characteristics which, it is commonly supposed, promise an early death. Happily for the world this supposition, in his case, proved itself in error.

NEW PUBLICATIONS

OUTWITTED AT LAST This is a novel which differs somewhat from the general mass of stories which end in the death or marriage of the hero and heroine having the elements of a detective's story blended with a case of true love which ran very roughly The villains of the story are finely pictured and so is the heroine and the unraveling of the plot is quite neatly done It is a story which possesses a thrilling interest for a single perusal but one would hardly take the trouble to go through it a second time Published by G W Carleton & Co New York For sale at Bugbee's

EDITH MURRAY, by Joanna H Matthews, is a very charming novel indeed and one which will be a good companion for these long winter evenings The characters are especially well drawn, that of John Thorndyke being a model of its kind The picture of honest, haughty, imperious manhood scorning with all its power wrong doing is seldom portrayed with a finer sense of the elements composing it than it is here and the reader can but admire the author's production which has been so skilfully wrought Edith Murray the heiress is a companion piece of equal merit and one which, though complete by itself is yet a necessary adjunct of the other the two contrasting superbly but even the minor characters of the volume are no less drawings thrown in to make the number complete they are strong in color adding to the intense interest which the story awakens in the first pages and holds to the close Some of the scenes are exquisite bits of word painting that lack no touches nor are overdrawn and those who read 'Edith Murray' will pronounce it a splendid novel" G W Carleton & Co Publishers New York For sale at Bugbee's

THE WAGES OF POLITICAL SIN

[From the New York World, Dem]

The wages of sin is death in the political not less than in the moral world, and the workings of this inevitable law is as mysterious sometimes in the one as in the other. The results of the political forces put in operation last autumn exhibited this to the completeness of a demonstration, as may be briefly made manifest. The Democracy of Maine up to last June bravely follow the initiative of New York on the financial question. In 1877 they declared in their platform that they called for "a sound currency, coin or its equivalent, as essential to stability in business and a restoration of prosperity. Steps towards specie payments, and no steps back ward."

In February, 1878 the National party was organized in Toledo, O, and formulated the idea of Ohio in these words

Resolved—It is the exclusive function of the General Government to coin and create money and regulate its value. All bank issues designed to circulate as money should be suppressed. The circulating medium, whether of metal or paper, shall be issued by the Government and made a full legal tender for all debts, duties and taxes in the United States at its stamped value.

Resolved—There shall be no privileged class of creditors. Official salaries, pensions, bonds and all other debts and obligations public and private, shall be discharged in the legal tender money of the United States strictly according to the stipulations of laws under which they were contracted.

This was a defiant demand for enforced Government paper, resting neither on capital nor on coin as a basis of the money system of the whole nation. It called for the infusion into our circulation of more of the poison which has made the rich richer and the poor poorer for so many successive years. It called for more greenbacks never to be redeemed by payment, and the volume of which can never be reduced. It called for more of a sort of currency, which when issued in large quantities, no nation ever has redeemed or ever will redeem in coin and extinguish. Instead of insisting that the lumbermen, the quarrymen and the fishermen of Maine should be paid in gold dollars worth their face the world over, it put them off with shinplasters, sure to increase the price of everything those toilers need to buy. The Democracy of Maine in a fatal moment unfortunately yielded to the Ohio tempter, and in June 1878 thus spake in their platform

We are opposed to an irredeemable currency but believe in one currency, for the Government and the people, the laborer and office holder, the pensioner and soldier, the producer and the bondholder.—We are opposed to the present national banking system and in favor of the gradual substitution of greenbacks for national bank bills.

All of which is a comparison of the two platforms will show at once was simply a servile plagiarism of the dreary drivel of Ohio about the idea of Ohio. Mr Sherman does not propose to redeem and destroy the greenbacks now outstanding, and who will deny that another issue would be irredeemable. What was the result? The election in Maine like a fire bell at night sounded throughout the nation the fires which are opposed to socialism and communism in money matters. The chairman of the Republican party enabled the wily and alert leaders of that organization who under Grant had promoted inflation to bring their voters over to that very Democratic platform which the Maine Democracy had stupidly abandoned. The Democracy in other States bewildered by the Maine election lost their cue and with it lost their ascendancy in many Northern legislatures. Let the Democracy now resolutely retrace their backward steps to the Maine platform of 1877 and the wages of virtue, which are life, and not those of sin, which are death, will be their sweet reward.

THE ELECTION FRAUDS DEBATE

The despatches announce that debate in the Senate on the Blaine resolution in regard to the recent elections in the South will begin on Wednesday at one o clock—It will be opened by Mr Blaine with a brief speech and it is said he will be followed by Senators Thurman and Gordon. In the debate the position will be taken by a number of Republicans that Congress can, if it sees fit, take the entire machinery of the election of its own members out of the hands of the States and conduct them by officers of the general government, and that this can be done under the provisions of the original Constitution and that if any State fails to ensure to all citizens all the rights granted by the 14th Amendment that Congress can take measures to secure the enjoyment of these rights, and if the laws passed to enforce the 15th Amendment are defective, they can be amended.—It will therefore be held that investigation to ascertain whether the facts justify legislation is altogether proper.

Senator Lamar is going to give his whole attention to securing legislation which will tend to mitigate the terrors of the yellow fever. He believes that this is a duty of the Federal Government. In other words he believes it is the duty of the Federal Government not only to prevent the importation of disease from abroad, but to prevent its spread within States. And still the Senator would scarcely agree to a proposition for the Federal Government to interfere and secure the punishment of those engaged in the Chisolm massacre or to protect the lives of citizens of the United States in such cases of general lawlessness as now exists in Breathitt county, Kentucky.—Boston Journal

The unaccountable appearance of three Republicans in the South Carolina Legislature is explained at last. Ten thousand tissue-ballots were shipped from Charleston for Beaufort County, but the boat which bore them ran on a sand bar, and did not arrive till after the election. In this way "negro ignorance" was enabled to triumph over "white intelligence and experience," and send three men to the Legislature. It is the one blemish on the bull-dozers' reform escutcheon.

The editor of the Commercial "maintains that $7,000 is ample for all the printing, binding and stitching that the State needs." The competition is open and Mr. Emery should put in his bid if he "means business."

The Tribune remarks that General Butler seems to be a quorum of the Potter committee.

HYSTERICAL AGAIN.

The Commercial man revels in big type like an infant with a toy alphabet, and a five-line sensational despatch will afford him text for a dozen display headings. Last evening he broke loose in this style, in his heaviest type: "Oh Dear, Dear! Dear!—Shaking hands Across the Bloody Chasm—What will our Genial Neighbor Say?—Blaine and Blackburn Shaking Hands —The whole North and South Cheering them On!" The cause of this hysterical outburst will be found in our telegraphic columns, in a despatch in which some sensational writer for a New York paper has embellished some gossip that he has picked up about a dinner attended by Senator Blaine. The Commercial man seems astonished that Mr. Blaine should be credited with expressing a desire for the welfare of the South and as disclaiming personal hostility to that section. None of Mr Blaine's friends, however, will find anything in this at variance with the attitude he has always maintained. As to precise phraseology we should prefer to have our Senator's word's rather than the version of a gushing reporter, and the description of the "shaking hands" episode is amusingly sensational. People familiar with the customs of respectable society do not invest the social amenities and dinner-table civilities of Washington with grave political significance, although Mr Emery evidently thinks that Senator Blaine ought to bounce out of a parlor if a Democrat should chance to enter, and that it would be impossible for him to meet a Southerner at table without having a melee. Next Wednesday Senator Blaine will present some resolutions, not assailing the South but demanding justice for the people of that section and we ought to be able to hope the enthusiasm and harmony of the Commercial, Blackburn and the rest will be exhibited in seconding his efforts to promote the true interests of the South and the whole Union by establishing the political rights of every citizen. We shall listen intently for the "cheers" with which they ought to greet his demand for investigation of fraud and outrage.

THE CIPHER DESPATCHES

WHAT SMITH WEED'S PARTNER AND A DEMOCRATIC EX-SPEAKER HAVE TO SAY

Congressman Andrew Williams of Plattsburg, N. Y., although a Republican is a law partner of Smith M. Weed and in an interview at the Fifth Avenue Hotel the other day expressed the following opinion of the cipher despatches:

"I have heard nothing about them except what I have seen in print, but I think the Tribune has made out a clear case. The fac-simile of one of Mr Marble's despatches would seem to remove all question concerning his connection with the scheme to buy the Presidency. I have no doubt that Congress will investigate the matter. In fact the Democrats cannot afford to ignore it. They will only confess their guilt by ignoring it, and establish it by investigation, so it won't matter much to the Republicans which horn of the dilemma they choose. Any attempt to clear Tilden of knowledge of the conspiracy will not be believed by the public. His careful personal supervision of all the events, great and small, of the campaign is too well known to attempt to try the credulity of the public with such a story—not even considering the fact that large sums of money were forwarded and that the ciphers were sent to his house and other equally convincing testimony."

An Albany special to the Times gives some interesting remarks of ex-Speaker Maguire, as follows

Hon Jeremiah Maguire, of Elmira, who was Speaker of the Democratic Assembly in 1875 the first year of Tilden's State administration, and who was among the foremost of those Democrats who opposed Mr Tilden's political projects, has been staying at Adam Blake's new hotel, the Kenmore, for a few days. To-day in reply to inquiries, he gave the following views regarding the cipher despatches:

"I never read the despatches as they appeared," said he, "with much interest because in December 1876, and January, 1877, I knew thoroughly all that was going on down in the disputed Southern States. I was kept informed of it by friends who were in it themselves. I knew that Smith Weed started for South Carolina on the 10th of November right from Tilden's own house, in Gramercy Park. He stopped over at Raleigh under the name of Keith. Why, I always call him Keith to this day on account of it. He went from Raleigh to Columbia, and was there on the 13th the day the College met. I knew, from sources that cannot be doubted, that $50 000 were offered to a colored member—and it is to the credit of his race—to a 'nigger' member of the Electoral College to give his vote for Tilden, and he refused it sternly, and persistently."

"And who offered it?"

"Why, Weed, of course. There can't be any doubt about that." And the ex Speaker laughed. "There was plenty of chance to buy, but nobody but Tilden himself was willing to buy, and he delayed and haggled too much. I saw in the report of some proceedings down there that two men came on to New York and offered to sell a Tilden vote for $1,000,000 to John Morrissey. When I read it I went up to Morrissey's room and asked him what there was in it. 'Well, it's all true,' said he, 'but it was too high. I could have got one for $30,000.' 'Then,' said I, 'why didn't you do it?' You are considered Tilden's especial champion. Why didn't you do it?' 'Because,' said Morrissey, 'I wouldn't cross the street to make Tilden President that way. He's ungrateful and deceiving, and if it had come out he would have denied all knowledge of it, and thrown all the odium on me. Besides, nobody wants him in the White House anyhow.' When I told John that I thought he was an especial champion of Tilden, he declared that he wasn't, but he was opposed to John Kelly, and so joined forces with Tilden."

"You have observed, Mr Maguire, that Mr Tilden has denied any complicity in the cipher despatches?"

"No he hasn't," responded the ex-Speaker. "He denies that he received them, that they were read to him, or that their contents were imparted to him, but he does not deny that somebody in his confidence received them and had power to act and did act for him in regard to them. I was just like him to keep himself so far clear of them that he might make such a denial, and yet know all that was necessary about them. If there is ever an investigation by Congress and he has to get on the stand, a sharp cross-examination will show it all up."

That terrible onslaught upon the National Banks doesn't start with much spontaneity. So high an authority as Voorhees is frank to confess that little is likely to come of it. He can't see how the Democratic party is to be united in the attack when some of its ablest leaders like Bayard, Kernan, Randolph and Eaton are strongly opposed to it. Voorhees is despondent about the future, and is even said to have no hope for 1880. The prevailing sentiment of the Democracy at present is in favor of keeping still until the effect of resumption can be ascertained. The common remark among Democratic Congressmen is: "We can't effect anything this Winter, so what is the use of making a record which may be troublesome?" That is the very thing which will keep all the fanatical agitators in check. The Democrats see that they have a hard fight before them in 1880, and they do not propose to make it harder by unnecessary and hopeless resistance to what is likely to prove a popular measure. It is extremely probable therefore, that the National Banks will be allowed to survive for a short time longer at least.—N. Y. Tribune.

By a typographical error in yesterday's issue the amount appropriated for school mill tax in 1878 was printed $234,579,56, when it should have been $224,579,56.

VIRGINIA CIVILIZATION.

[From the Boston Herald]

A WOMAN STRIPPED TO THE WAIST RECEIVES TWENTY-FIVE LASHES.

In the Richmond (Va) Police Court Tuesday, a woman named Mrs. Nancy Lynch was sentenced to receive 25 lashes for stealing some pieces of iron from the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Company. Soon after, she stood in the yard of the City Jail, with her eyes fixed upon the whipping post, a stout brown post about seven feet in height and three feet in circumference. An official in the yard called to an attendant. "Throw me down that tickler," whereupon a cowhide, about half an inch in diameter at the butt and tapering down to a point, was tossed into his hand. Nancy shuddered. The official said "Take down your clothes, Nancy, and hug the widder."

"Must I take all off?"

"Yes, and hurry up."

Nancy unbuttoned her dress in front, and stripped to the waist, her upper clothing falling down over her hips and exposing to the gaze of the few bystanders a glossy skin from shoulders to waist. In a moment more she had embraced the "widder," or whipping post. She gripped the post, her head turned toward the official, and, as he raised the cowhide, seemed to nerve herself for the lashes. Rapidly the twenty-five stripes were laid on, each making a horrible mark on the skin. At this the victim did not move, but, as the remainder descended in rapid succession she writhed and twisted in agony, and the tears poured down her cheeks.

At the time of its adoption and through out our campaign, we insisted that the financial planks of the Maine Democratic State platform were thoroughly shaky and rotten. Some of our Republican contemporaries were inclined to regard the Democratic utterances as sound and solid in contrast with the more candid Greenback proclamation of heresies, and by degrees it became customary to refer to the Democratic platform as a sound money basis. We find our opinion sustained by the Democratic New York World, which, in the editorial quoted elsewhere, declares that the Maine Democratic platform of this year was "simply a servile plagiarism of the 'dreary drivel of Ohio' about the idea of 'Ohio,'" or, in other words of the "Ohio idee" of the Toledo Greenback platform. The Commercial will find the views of the metropolitan Democratic organ rather interesting.

THE MAINE STATE PRISON. The Boston Globe has sent a special reporter to the Thomaston Prison to write up the case of Hart, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Meservey, and publishes a supplement sheet filled with matter adduced to show his innocence of the crime. The writer speaks as follows of the Prison management

There is one word here which should be in duty and gratitude said of the Maine State Prison and its Warden, Mr. W. W. Rice. There is not in this country a State Prison where the convicts are treated so nearly in accordance with the laws of God and of humanity as at the one in Maine. Nor is it possible to find a more humane, just and careful man than Mr Rice. His duties are necessarily stern ones, but he never forgets, nor allows his subordinates to do so, that each convict may one day become an honest law abiding citizen.

The work of tolling bells is done,
For wrecks of coughs and colds,
Long fought for victory has come,
Against Consumption's dreaded hold.
Be careful! wait not too long,
That cough may courage rend,
WILSON'S COUGH BALSAM will your lungs defend,
And make you its everlasting friend.

A NEW IDEA! KENNEDY'S Cakes, Jumbles, Etc. MADE BY MACHINERY.

Having purchased the "Holmes JUMBLE and CAKE Machine," with the exclusive right of the New England States, I now propose to place in every first-class Grocery a variety of rich Cake Goods in addition to the 144 kinds of Crackers and Biscuit now manufactured by me, at a price that will enable them to be used freely, and which is far below what the same class of goods can be made for by hand at present. At the same time they will be found much superior, being uniform, and much lighter and more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand. The following are some of the varieties now produced by the machine

Confectioner's Jumbles,	Sugar Plum Drops,
Cinnamon "	Variegated "
Marble Top "	Drop Pound Cake,
Spice "	Kisses,
Fruit "	Vanilla Cakes,
Common "	Spice "
Almond Maccaroons,	Molasses Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut "	Cinnamon Wafers,
Almond Drops,	Lady Fingers,
Fruit "	Sponge Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut "	Half Fingers,
Chocolate "	Spice "

I propose to place in every store a Sample Box, and a trial of them will prove all this advertisement calls for. If your Grocer has not already these goods in stock, ask him to order from the Sole Mart in the New England States.

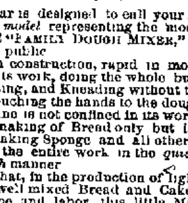
THE UNIVERSAL Family Dough Mixer and Kneader.



Patented July 23, 1878

This circular is designed to call your attention to the above model representing the most simple and practical "FAMILY DOUGH MIXER," ever presented to the public.

It is neat in construction, rapid in motion, and thorough in its work, doing the whole business of Mixing, Beating, and Kneading without the aid of a spoon or touching the hands to the dough.

This Machine is not confined in its work to the mixing and making of Bread only but is equally efficient in making Sponge and all other kinds of Cake, doing the entire work in the quickest and most thorough manner.

We claim that, in the production of light, clean, wholesome, well mixed Bread and Cake, and in saving of time and labor this little Mixer and Kneader surpasses anything ever before offered to the public.

It occupies only the space of the pan, and is so arranged that the Machine is easily removed from the dough, and is easy to clean.

A lady can sit and mix her Bread and Cake with this Machine, holding the pan in her lap.

Any family having one of these Mixers and Kneaders in use would not part with it for ten times its price, which places it within the reach of every family in the land. In two sizes.

The Indian Commission.

The Indian commission to-day heard ... Morrill, of Maine, in opposition to the transfer of the Indians to the War De-partment. Mr. Morrill spoke at consider-able length going into details. He said the only way to prepare the Indian for the emergencies of the future was to educate him and advocated radical changes in the laws relative to dealings with the red man. John Young, agent of the Blackfeet In-dians, said those under his jurisdiction were unanimously opposed to transfer.—The Committee then adjourned till to-mor-row.

So Kind.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. A Washington special says it is suggested in influential Democratic quarters that, if the election trials in South Carolina shall show frauds sufficient to invalidate the election in the two black districts, Smalls' and Rainey's, the elections there shall be promptly de-clared void when the new Congress meets, and new election ordered; or if this should not be done by the South Carolina authori-ties the seats will be declared vacant until it is done. Southern men in the House are disposed to move the grant of money asked by the President to carry out the federal election trials, and to pass an appropria-tion without delay. They are confident that a thorough judicial inquiry will show that there was no intimidation in the Southern States. They say that a judicial inquiry will be a great benefit to the South.

5.20 Bonds Called.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. The Secretary of the Treasury to-day issued the seventy-fourth call for the redemption of 5.20 bonds of 65 consols of 65. The call is for $5,000,000 of which $3,000,000 are register-ed bonds. The principal and interest will be paid at the Treasury on and after March 9, 1879 and intererest will cease on that day.

An Item for Landlords.

The Supreme Court of the United States decided to-day that whenever property is lost, or stolen, in a hotel through the per-sonal negligence of a guest the liability of the Inkeeper does not exist; that if the guest does not leave his valuables in the safe provided by the Inkeeper he must bear his own loss unless it occurs by the hands, or through the carelessness of the landlord or his employes.

The Treaty with Japan.

The commercial treaty with Japan, soon to be communicated to the Senate by the President for ratification, contemplates im-portant additions to that now in existence, having in view an increase and develop-ment of commerce in the interest of both countries.

The German Minister.

Baron Von Schloezer, German Minister, says he knows nothing whatever concern-ing the truth of the report prevalent at Berlin that he is to be superceded by Prince Lynar. Baron Von Schlozer re-turned from Germany last August.

VIRGINIA.

The Legislative Session.

RICHMOND, Dec. 9. In the Senate to-day the resolution appointing a special committee of nine Senators to consider the matter of alleged usurpation of State juris-diction by United States Judge Reeves of the Western District of Virginia, was pass-ed by an emphatic majority.

The status of the General Assembly whether now in regular session or in extra session, according to the Governor's proc-lamation, occupied the remainder of the day. The Senate finally decided that the present is the regular session.

AN EXUBERANT SPECIAL.

A Gushing Reporter Embellishing Dinner-table Gossip.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. It is stated that, at a dinner Saturday night, in response to a toast to the legislative branch of the Gov-ernment, Senator Blaine responded. Op-posite him sat Blackburn. Mr. Blaine was glad to say that with the end of the war his hostility to the South had ended com-pletely, and he entertained now for every man, woman and child of that region the Most benevolent feelings. He had noth-ing whatever of a personal hostility to any-body from the South. So far as he was con-cerned he would encourage the develop-ment of the intelligence of the South, and cultivate and assist its men of intellect. (Applause.)

He was followed by Mr. Blackburn, who took up the gage of friendship thus thrown down, and, reciprocated in elegant lan-guage the sentiments of the Senator from Maine. As if by common impulse the two gentlemen extended their arms across the table and shook hands, whereupon the rest of the party rose to their feet and, for a few moments, indulged in vociferous cheer-ing.

THE SUIT AGAINST SHERIDAN.

The Plaintiff's Testimony.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. The suit against General Sheridan continued to-day before Judge Wallace. James E. Whalen, plain-tiff, was cross-examined. He said he went into the plantation business, bought the standing crop on Belair plantation, in the Parish of Plaquemine, and realized over $50,000 net from that crop. He also leased a Davis plantation, and on the 19th of March, 1864, leased Killona plantation in connection with which suit is brought.—He lived on Killona plantation in '65, '66 and '67 until ejected, and the plantation was handed over to Mark Hoyt under or-der of Gen. Sheridan.

Mr. Beckwith confronted Whalen with the affidavits made by him in other suits in regard to the seizures of the Killona plantation, which flatly contradicted the testimony given by him on this trial.—Witness explained by saying that his law-yers told him the affidavits were all right and he signed them. He believed that a number of parties wanted to swindle him, and thought he was justified in swearing to the affidavits to protect himself.

He admitted that the sugar and molasses in New Orleans mentioned in the com-plaint as having been seized by General Sheridan's order, were sold three days be-fore the issuing of the order by Receiver Slater, who had appropriated it on the ap-plication of Whalen himself. Adjourned until to-morrow.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Importance of Holding Afghanistan.

LONDON, Dec. 9. In the course of the debate in the House of Lords on the ex-penses of the Afghan War, Lord Cran-brook declared there was not room for both England and Russia in Afghanstan. The Ameer's letter was no answer to Eng-land's ultimatum but a mere evasion. England must be paramount in Afghanis-tan which must be a friendly janitor to the doors of India and England must hold the keys herself.

VENEZUELA.

Relations with Italy Broken Up.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. The Panama Star says: On the 30th ult. M. Massone, the Italian Minister at Carracas, was grossly attacked and insulted by a sentry and by an officer at the barracks, on the public street. The officer was court martialed and sentenced to be publicly disgraced in the presence of the garrison and impris-oned three years. The authorities formal-ly expressed regret to the Italian minister, and the Minister of War ordered the troops in the city to parade before the legation with bands of music and flags of Italy and Venezuela interlaced as proof of cordial re-lations between the two countries, of ap-preciation and regard for the Minister who had been so unfortunately insulted, and of the regret of the Government at the cir-cumstances.

To an official notification of those facts M. Massone replied that he declined the honor of the intended demonstration and submitted two conditions which alone would be acceptable to him. First, that as the offence had been public, the official of-fender should be publicly degraded from the position which he actually occupied, in the presence of the force to which he be-longed. Second, that the flag of Italy should be solemnly saluted by the garri-son of Carracas in reparation of the un-heard of injury done to the representative of His Majesty, the King of Italy, and to all the Italian colony established in the Republic.

The Government refused the salute on the ground that friendly demonstrations equivalent thereto had already been offered and refused; and, in view of the fact also, that the officer had been punished more se-verely than the minister demanded. This amende M. Massone refused to accept, and on the 6th inst. the relations between the two countries were broken off.

A circular was addressed to the Govern-ment of the different States of the Repub-lic ordering them to observe strictly the treaty existing between the two countries so far as Italian subjects were concerned, until the action of the Government of Italy is ascertained.

PERU.

The Assassination of Pardo.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. Details of the as-sassination of Pardo at Lima, state that he was just entering the Senate Chamber and had just passed the guard which had salut-ed, as usual, when the sergeant deliberate-ly fired at Pardo's back. Pardo expired in a few minutes, and the members of the guard made no effort to assist Dr. Melgar in arresting the sergeant; and the latter es-caped, but was rearrested by a sergeant of the Gen'd'arms. All the guard were dis-armed and put under arrest. There is no doubt but that the assassination was pre-concerted as, on the shot being fired that killed Pardo, the sergeant at the Dep-uties Chamber fired his rifle in the air, fol-lowed by one or two of that portion of the guard, but the lieutenant charged them with his sabre and the remainder of the guard kept quiet. President Pardo took active measures to secure peace by placing a reliable guard from another battalion on duty at the Senate and Deputies Chamber. The body of Pardo was embalmed. On being taken to prison the guard escorting the murderer were attacked by a small mob but it was dispersed.

LOCAL MATTERS.

The weather was cold and cheerless yes-terday.

The river was full of floating anchor ice yesterday.

No one prosecuted in the police court yesterday.

Two or three vessels are now loading with hay in this port.

The Cambridge had a large freight out of this city yesterday.

A very large sea gull was seen flying about the river yesterday.

Are we going to have snow soon? was the principal inquiry yesterday.

The Jameson Guards talk of having some exhibition drills this winter.

On account of the floating ice the ferry boats were unable to run yesterday.

The Sewing Circle will meet at the "Home for Aged Women" this afternoon.

Yesterday Mr. Lowney went down to Bucksport to arrange for a gymnastic ex-hibition.

Just twelve years ago the first of Janua-ry the ground was broken for the E. & N. A. Railway.

The close time of partridges has arrived. You are liable to a fine for every one you kill now.

A boy was seen down on the ice in Ken-duskeag stream yesterday. Perhaps he is anxious for a cold bath.

There will be a meeting of the Penob-scot County Medical Association this after-noon at half past two o'clock.

A kid mitten was found on the street last evening and the owner can recover the same by calling at this office.

Some two or three hundred men will be employed at the Katahdin Iron Works this winter. Operations will be resumed this week.

Mr. W. R. McQuown publishes a card elsewhere, thanking those who kindly as-sisted him in the presentation of the recent operas.

At one o'clock this morning the police found a man laid out on the side-walk on Baptist hill so drunk that he was unable to move.

The ice has closed in around two ves-sels which are loading in the stream, and the tugs will have to break it up, before they can get out.

Mr. Hardy, the well known photograph-er, has a word to say about porcelain pic-tures in another column, which will be of interest to the public.

The police inform us that they found Lucy at the gas house yesterday morning and that his face looked as though he had paid dear for that chew of tobacco.

We noticed by yesterday morning's Bos-ton Journal that the "Trial by Jury" will be presented in the Boston Museum next Saturday evening, this being the first time that it has been given in any of the Thea-tres there.

The tickets for gallery seats at the mas-querade, which takes place in Norombega Hall next Thursday evening, are meeting with a fine sale. The floor tickets are also being rapidly taken and the indications are that it will prove a very successful and en-joyable affair.

A Winterport correspondent writes: The building occupied by Lyman Curtis in Frankfort, was burned Nov. 28th.—The buildings on the Job Philbrook farm in Frankfort, were burned Sunday night, and another small building in Frankfort was burned last week.

THE OPERA this evening will be fully attended, as the plan of the hall on Bug-bee's counter shows, the sale of seats hav-ing been unprecedentedly large, a very gratifying fact to the Ruskin Club who have the management of the affair. "Il Trovatore," though presented for the first time in our city, is by no means unfamiliar to the majority of those who will hear it to-night, and it is a tribute to the musical ability of the Company that a full house will greet them.

Mr. Bragdon's lecture at Unity Hall last evening on "How plants grow," was well attended and proved equally as interesting and instructive as those which have pre-ceded it in his series on Botany. The lec-ture was finely illustrated by the aid of the stereopticon and all came away highly pleased with what they had seen and heard.

ORONO SCHOOLS. The winter term of the Orono High School, Mr. S. H. Powell Principal and Miss L. L. Gardiner Assist-ant, commenced yesterday with fifty-nine scholars in attendance and a few more to come in. The term is to be twelve weeks. The Select School, Miss Ellen Libby, teach-er, has an attendance of fifty-two, and is to be of same length as the High School. The Intermediate and Primary schools are all in full numbers.

By referring to another column it will be seen that Caldwell Sweet & Brother have made arrangements with Messrs. Seken-ger and Allen, for the sale of cut flow-ers, bouquets and plants. The respective merits of these two greenhouses are too well known by our citizens to need any comments from us and as every one likes to encourage home industry, here is an opportunity.

THE PAINE GENEALOGY. Hon. Albert W. Paine has handed us a neat pamphlet containing the Paine Family Records, compiled by H. D. Paine, M. D., of New York, to be issued in quarterly numbers. The family is said to have been traced back to Odo Paganus, who lived in Norway in 1020, and the various branches are fol-lowed down to the present day. Hon. A. W. Paine contributes a paper on the Ips-wich branch.

MILO. At the annual meeting of the Piscataquis Lodge No. 44 of Masons, held at Milo Friday evening, the following of-ficers were elected for the ensuing year:—L. Sands, Master; H. Hamlin, S. Warden; C. H. Rollins, J. Warden; W. H. Owen, Treasurer; W. P. Young, Secretary; N. J. Dumphy, S. Deacon, J. I. Donald, J. Dea-con; Wm. Downs, S. Steward; J. C. Crock-ett, J. Steward; S. D. Millett, Tyler.

ALMOST AN ACCIDENT. Our corres-pondent W. writes: This morning when the Dover stage had arrived within half a mile of Dexter village one of the hind wheels was crushed, and their being a great deal of heavy baggage on the rack behind, the coach was turned completely upside down. There were four passen-gers inside at the time, but very fortunate-ly not one of them was hurt in the least.—It is considered a very fortunate escape.

The attention of the public is called to the advertisement of F. J. Taney in anoth-er column. Mr. Taney, who has had a large experience in the drug business, hav-ing been with J. F. Patten for eight years, has purchased H. H. Butler's extensive stock of drugs and fancy goods and will continue the business at No. 4 Kendus-keag Bridge, and by strict attention to business he hopes to merit a liberal share of the patronage. We wish him success.

THE HANDEL rehearsals commenced last evening with Prof. James W. Whitney as director and Mrs. F. S. Davenport pian-ist. There was a good attendance, and choruses were sung from the Creation "Moses in Egypt" and "The Oratorio Chorus Book." It is the intention of the Association to make this season interesting to all. Instead of the "Social Hour" a concert will be given every month during the season. Judging from the choruses last evening, we can promise our citizens some fine concerts during the winter.

THE CASTINE NORMAL SCHOOL. We understand that the Board of Trustees of the State Normal Schools have offered Mr. Fletcher, of the Castine School, a vacation of several months of rest and an opportu-nity to inspect the schools of other States. Mr. Fletcher who is one of our most val-uable men in the educational field, has de-clined several calls to other positions, and it is to be hoped that he will continue in the work for which his long experience and special qualifications so eminently fit him. He started the school at Castine nearly twelve years ago, and the many ex-cellent scholars who have gone out from it to successful and useful lives attest the Principal's faithful labor.

The Concert.

Notwithstanding the other attractions last evening, a fine audience assembled at the Pine street Methodist church on the oc-casion of the grand concert, given under the direction of Mr. E. E. Holden. The following was the programme:

PART FIRST.

1. Quartette—Lovely Night, — Chwatal
   Penobscot Quartette.
2. Duett—Piano and Organ. Fantasie from the Opera of Martha, — Flotow
   Mrs. J. B. Ayer and Miss Abbie Garland.
3. Song—The White Squall.
   Mr. J. W. Patten.
4. Song—Once Again, — Sullivan
   Miss Nellie Blaisdell.
5. Duett—I would that my Love, — Mendelssohn
   Misses Carrie and Mary Hodgdon.
6. Song—If Doughty Deeds, — Sullivan
   Mr. J. B. Barnaby.
7. Duett—Flow Gently Deva.
   Mr. Moody and Mr. Holden.

PART SECOND.

1. Piano Solo—Selected. — Mrs. J. B. Ayer
2. Song—Flower of the Alps, — Wekerlin.
   Mrs. W. F. Shaw.
3. Song—In Days of Old, — Hatton
   Mr. G. T. Moody.
4. Song—The Lost Chord. — Sullivan
   Mrs. E. T. Wasgatt.
5. Duett—Life's Dream is O'er, — Archer
   Miss Nellie Blaisdell and Mr. E. E. Holden.
6. Song—Parting, — Millard
   Miss H. A. Osgood.
7. Song—The Tar's Farewell, — Adams
   Mr. G. S. Farrington.
8. Quartette—Now the Day is O'er, — Barnby
   Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Wasgatt, Mr. Patten and Mr. Moody.

In the opening selection by the Penob-scot Quartette, the familiar voice of Mr. F. A. Curtis was missed from among the num-ber, but his place was ably filled by Mr. Patten and the selection was rendered in excellent style. The instrumental selec-tions by Mrs. J. B. Ayer and Miss Abbie Garland, were finely executed and called forth considerable applause. Miss Nellie Blaisdell's rich voice rang out clear and sweet in the solo "Once Again;" also in the duett with Mr. Holden, and both pieces were warmly encored. Mrs. Shaw, who is a favorite with every audience, was well received last evening and all were so high-ly delighted with the power and sweetness of her magnificent voice, that she was promptly recalled to the stage. Mrs. E. T. Wasgatt and Miss Osgood were in ex-cellent voice and their solos were enthusi-astically received by the audience. The solos by Messrs. Patten, Barnaby, Moody and Farrington, and the duett by Messrs. Moody and Holden, were all given in ex-cellent taste and were highly appreciated.

"Watteau and His Time."

Dr. A. C. Hamlin's lecture at the ... Rooms last evening drew together a fine audience, who were most pleasantly enter-tained for three quarters of an hour, with an interesting account of the famous artist "Watteau, and his time." In the 17th and 18th centuries two schools of art appeared in France and reigned successively. The first grand and powerful, derived its life from the sacred inspiration of God and na-ture, it clothed and heightened human beauty with a recollection of heaven and the light of a pure ideal.

The other graceful and coquettish in the extreme, exerted itself only to charm and intoxicate, even at the expense of truth and grandeur. The first period represent-ed by Poussin and Mignard, exhibited art in its true splendor. The second illustrated by the charming pencil of Watteau and his followers, Vahloo and Boucher, represents only the dream of art. This dream was, perhaps, the most beautiful that ever daz-zled the gaze of a profane world, and though devoid of truth and virtue, the his-torian must admit that it was a most re-markable development of human power in design and color. Antoine Watteau was born in 1684, in Valencienne. He can, therefore, be called either a French or a Flemish artist. He came as most men of genius have come from the ranks of the humble and the poor, and early exhibited a taste for painting. In the studio of the artist the boy evinced a love for the study of mythology, and his ardent imagination revelled in the fables of the ancients.

In the manner in which his natural talent was discovered and afterward developed, history is full of examples, and we may say with propriety that in art and science a kind word of encouragement often leads to grand results. Watteau soon arose from his condition of obscurity and poverty and glory and money were showered upon him from every side. All the beautiful women were eager to have their charms immortal-ized by this artist, and collectors and con-noisseurs sought to add to their galleries a picture from the brush of the distinguish-ed artist. Watteau became startled by his celebrity and rather sought to escape noto-riety in retirement. Modern times has seen but one Watteau, and we may with truth say that no one has ever equalled him in his enchanting and fairy-like touch. He painted with great rapidity and left many fine productions of his pencil, of which over five hundred were engraved. He painted a number of historical pictures, but wisely abandoned his ambition in that line, and confined himself chiefly to the subjects of his fancy, and was called the poet painter of the eighteenth century. The lecture throughout was very entertain-ing, and the Art Club are certainly fortu-nate in having so interesting and instruc-tive lectures as the two just given at the Art Rooms.

A THIEF.

Let off Easily.

Yesterday morning Marshal Reed was notified that he was wanted at a house on Harlow street and on arriving at the place designated, found one of our prominent grocers keeping watch over certain arti-cles, in the possession of a young woman, which he claimed she had stolen from him.

It appears that this woman had been employed at the residence of the gentle-man, who for convenience sake we will call Mr. A., for nearly two years doing general housework, until recently, when she only called at the house once a week in order to do the washing. For some time Mr. A., has been of the opinion that his family consumed a large quantity of groceries, but as they had every confi-dence in the integrity of this girl, he sup-posed that it must be all right. Thus mat-ters run along until Mr. A., became fully convinced that there was a leak some-where and determined to lay a trap for the girl and test her honesty.

Consequently a week ago last Saturday, as the girl was then employed about the house, he weighed out twelve pounds of sugar and sent it to the house and had it placed where the girl could get at it. After she had gone home the sugar was again weighed on the same scales, when it was found that it was considerably lighter. This same thing was tried again last Satur-day, the only difference being that other articles were used instead of sugar, and a portion of the goods disappeared when the girl went home. Having now been con-vinced of the girl's dishonesty they began to make a careful examination of the house, when they discovered that she had not confined her attention wholly to the grocery department, but that bed clothes, a dress pattern, crockery and other arti-cles were missing.

Yesterday morning Mr. A., accompanied by his daughter, who had lost a dress, started for the house where this girl was stopping. Mr. A., had a long talk with her, during the course of which he accused her of stealing the goods, but this she firmly denied and refused to allow him to look at the contents of a large trunk in the room, claiming that she did not have the key, and finding that he was not making much headway, Mr. A., sent his daughter after Mr. Reed, who soon made his ar-rival at the house as stated above.

Mr. Reed had a few minutes conversa-tion with the girl, after which she pro-duced the key of the trunk and on opening the same, it was found that it was closely packed with groceries of all des-criptions. At first she claimed that only a small portion of the goods belonged to Mr. A., but finding that this did not work, she finally acknowledged that they were all stolen, but still asserted that she had noth-ing more in her possession that belonged to Mr. A. In order to make a long story short they continued their search until they found groceries enough to have sup-plied the woman for a year, but did not re-cover all of the dry goods. The woman is married and her husband recently went out West, and as she is about to be confin-ed Mr. A. will not have her prosecuted. This should prove a good lesson for her, as nothing but the kindness of Mr. A. has saved her from spending several years in the State Prison.

A Lucky Discovery.

The Portland Press says: "In the year 1872 a contract was made by the Maine Central Railroad with a man named Frye, to run the stage from Newport to Dexter and Moosehead Lake, and he also had a contract to carry the mails and passengers in conection with the railroad. Charles F. Hatch was Manager of the Eastern and Maine Central roads at the time, and J. M. Lunt, now Superintendent of the Roches-ter road, was Superintendent. Some mis-understanding grew out of this contract which caused both Mr. Frye and the road much trouble at the time, Mr. Frye insist-ing that certain letters had been forwarded to Manager Hatch in relation to the matter at issue, which Mr. Hatch claimed he had never received.

The other day President Jackson, of the Maine Central received a letter from Mr. Merriam, Master of the United States Steamer Rio Bravo, stationed in the Gulf squadron, and dated November 13th. Mr. Merriam stated that in July, 1876, he came home in the steamer Monongahela, which went out of commission at Norfolk Navy-yard. While there he was in want of a trunk and selected one from among the lot in the storehouse. The other day the can-vass covering of the trunk was discovered to be in need of repair, and Merriam strip-ped it off in order to replace it with a new one. Under this covering he found the long lost letters relating to this contract and he accordingly forwarded them to their proper owner. It is thought these letters must have been handed to a brake-man or baggage master at the time, who laid them on the trunk to attend to some duty, and in some way they got pushed un-der the covering and lost. The trunk had afterwards been sold and finally came into possession of the Navy Department, and found a resting place in the storeroom at the Norfolk yard. The recovery of the letters is quite a valuable one for the rail-road company.

West Waterville.

A correspondent writes: Last week a company calling themselves the "Merry Makers," came to this place advertising to give away, in connection with their enter-tainment, genuine gold and silver watches, flour, provisions, &c., &c. The manager engaged the band here to play two nights. A very few cheap presents were given the first evening. The next morning the lead-er of the band saw the proprietor, and it was mutually agreed that the band was not to be again expected; but their servi-ces the first evening should be paid for the next morning, as the show was to conclude the second evening, as advertised. The evening proved stormy, however, and pay-ment was postponed one more day; but the "Merry Makers," left on the half past five o'clock freight train, euchering the band. No promise that this company made was fully kept and all, who are post-ed pronounce the whole thing a humbug and fraud, and caution the public against the concern.

The Hall and Band Sociable last Friday evening was a decided success. The prom-inent singers and pianists took part. These sociables will be continued once in two weeks for the next three months. The first of the series will take place next Monday evening 16th.

The annual meeting of Messalonskee Lodge, 113, F. & A. M., occurred last Sat-urday evening. The following officers were elected: G. T. Benson, M.; Rev. L. Given, S. W.; L. Belanger, J. W.; M. M. Bartlett, Treas.; W. M. Ayer, Sec.; Frank Sawtelle, Sen. D.; C. K. Sawtelle, J. D.; C. Rowell, L. Given, A. Winslow, Com. of Finance.

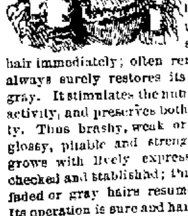
Ayer's Hair Vigor,
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR
To its Natural Vitality and Color.



Advancing years, sickness, care, disap-pointment, and here-ditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray, and either of them in-cline it to shed prem-aturely.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, by long and exten-sive use, has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately; often renews the growth, and always surely restores its color, when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beau-ty. Thus brashy, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair re-grows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and stablished; thin hair thickens, and faded or gray hairs resume their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dand-ruff, heals all humors, and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies' hair, the Vigor is prais-ed for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and val-ued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it im-parts.

THE BARRING OF THE DOOR.

BY ANNA BOYNTON AVERILL

The chill, sweet wind is like a sigh
To-night above the hallowed ground
Where side by side our loved ones lie
With quiet fields and woods around

And here at home the hour has come
For rest and sleep—outside, the leaves
Drop slow and still and all is dumb
Save the low wind that softly grieves

The children put their books away,
While mother sweeps the littered floor,
And I then wind the clock for day
—It falls to me to bar the door

It has been so long, so long—
The tender years have soothed the pain,
And yet the autumn wind's low song
Brings fresh and sorrowful again

The memory of that child sh fear
That with the barring of the door
We shut them out—the dead and dear
Who sought us from the unseen shore

When those thick sodded graves were new
I used to think my heart would break
And I wept awake the long night through,
And watched the stars out for the sake

Of those in darkness shut away,
For whom I feared they yearned for home,
And every with the shadows grey
I thought perhaps to-night they come"

O Angels in the starry skies
Are we the shadows on the shore
And ours not thine, the wistful eyes
That wait the unlarring of the door

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number People should inform their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly

Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the same is put on at the office Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first trip supplying the extremes of their routes

Collections are made morning and evening in season for important mails—the down town boxes fifteen and the up town boxes thirty minutes before closing mails at the office

Holidays the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A M, and from 7½ to 8 P M Sundays from 8½ to 9½ A M

Any irregularities in the Carriers' department should be reported to the office

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and request to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, (samples of which may be seen at the Cashier's window,) when ordered in lots of not less than 500

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State across the left end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with.

☞ The public are earnestly recommended to procure Stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge

First class envelopes of above furnished at $22.30 per thousand.

Stamps cut from Stamped Envelopes cannot be used to prepay postage The use of such Stamps is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars

Stamped Envelopes, spoiled in directing, are redeemed at this office
